

ABSTRACT

A safety system for a vehicle power sliding door for restricting the operation of a sliding door via an Electronic Control Unit (ECU) when a window glass mounted at the sliding door is opened to a certain degree. The ECU receives an electric signal from a switch means once the window glass is opened to a certain degree, thus effectively reducing injury to a passenger.